

August 31, 2014

New Podcast “Lets Trash Talk” Now Available In iTunes

The Lets Trash Talk podcast is the podcast where we say what you're thinking, no apologies necessary. Straight talk from real people. Listener participation is welcomed and encouraged.

NEW JERSEY, August, 31, 2014 — Lets Trash Talk, (<http://letstrashtalk.com>), a podcast about giving honest opinions to today's topics, has just been released and is available to listeners for subscription in the iTunes, Stitcher, Spreaker, and Miro directories. The Lets Trash Talk podcast focuses on the latest trending topics, news, politics, entertainment, and life in general and is geared toward adults 18 years of age and older.

Episodes so far have featured information on having bad neighbors, inappropriate teacher/student relationships, the ALS Ice Bucket Challenge, suicide, domestic violence, freedom of speech, and freedom of expression, reaching an audience of hundreds of listeners.

Podcast host Ed says, "In this politically correct world we now live in, people are afraid to express their true opinions and it's time for a new dose of reality."

Podcast host Sara says, "Today's culture of political correctness bullies people into taking less controversial stances on issues. I want to share my unique take on things."

Fans of the podcast can contact Ed/Sara via email (feedback@letstrashtalk.com) or by phone (708-872-7439) to provide feedback and ideas for the podcast.

To listen to the podcast, visit <http://letstrashtalk.com>

About the Lets Trash Talk Podcast

Based in New Jersey, United States, the Lets Trash Talk podcast serves listeners interested in straight talk from real people and a refreshing stance on today's issues. Hosted by Ed and Sara, the Lets Trash Talk podcast is released on a weekly basis and is available for subscription at iTunes, Stitcher, Spreaker, Miro, and most major podcast directories.

August 31, 2014

For more information, contact the Lets Trash Talk podcast at feedback@letstrashtalk.com, (708)872-7439 or visit the official website: <http://letstrashtalk.com>